George,
I am going to miss those early classes, aren't you!? I was real proud of you during basketball, especially at the state tournament. Good luck at Davidson! Maybe in the future we will be a doctor and nurse team! Ha! Ha! and Tommy can be our associates.

Glad you got so mad at the picnic, it wouldn't have been the same without you! Remembers the initiation at 7 weeks house and the trip to Carolina on that smooth riding bus? I know you love me for the things I told Pam! Did you have more fun after I called her up? I been teaching her how to walk during sixth period and she's getting pretty sexy. (ask her about it)

We sure have done well in English; I'm about 1 for 200 this year and your not much better. Glad you're going to Davidson and I may be down there after first semester! I know it will break your poor little basketball star heart to leave Reynolds (What a high, handsome all American you are - blah!) Best of luck and looking forward to being a doctor and

P.S. Thanks for embarrassing me this year!

George, Pardner with you! Remember Stubby Kulp Jr.

This year has been the best yet. We had a pretty good basketball season, even though you were co-captain. Seriously, you did a great job and your enthusiasm helped everyone. So bad you aren't going to Carolina with Spry and me but I know you will be a success at Davidson. We'll invite you over for some parties and you might want to go over to Duke. See you this summer.

Foreword

We, the class of 1964, approach our graduation with full recognition of the significance of our last, eventful year at Reynolds High School. Here we have learned the meaning of personal responsibility, of the power of knowledge, and here we have laid the foundation for a solid sense of values with which to face the life we now have before us.

We, the editors, proudly present to you, the students, the 1964 Black and Gold in the hope that it will bring pleasant memories to you in the years to come. Through the use of trees, our theme, we have shown the many aspects of student life at Reynolds. The lofty pine symbolizes the high academic achievements; the maple, with its multi-colored leaves, represents the variety of clubs; the strong oak, the extended athletic program; and the magnolia, the lovely Black and Gold queen.

The year which has passed has left us with a deeper realization of the necessity for cooperation between individuals and among nations. This spirit of cooperation has long been an ideal of our school, and we, the editors, wish to present this yearbook as a symbol of this spirit, which has inspired our class in the past, and which, being so firm in purpose, will remain with each of us throughout the future.

George,

I really don't know what to say - Only that your comments have thoroughly enlightened
Bernard this year! Seriously,
I understand that you were only teasing (I hope)
I don't mind -

I know you'll do great at Davidson, I'm expecting to hear great things of you - Best of everything to a really great guy! Always, remember

P.S. Honest, I didn't splatter that ice cream
on you on purpose!!!

Summer is a carefree time when students enjoy picnics, extra spending money, and the family car. Sunburn and sand and surf . . . but, ah, the daily cheerleading and dancing boot practices occupy much of the girls' time. Early morning scrimmages found the boys eagerly trying to make it a victory year . . . But fall . . . Remember the traditional gatherings on the landing? and the exchanging of schedule cards? and the glance toward the clock as the first prayer bell rang?

Early Autumn reflects the many phases of School Life

The sophomores came here expecting it to be different, but found that it wasn't so strange after all. There was the everyday trip to the locker, the confusion as to where room 111 was, and the annual trek to the 4th floor.

School spirit exploded during football season

All of the tension of note-taking quickly turned to patriotism at our first football game of the season. Our boys made homecoming really a day to celebrate. Mrs. Spencer's homeroom won first place in the bulletin board contest, but the excitement did not fully burst until the parade initiated the event. Cheerleaders kept our spirit high until, at last, the suspense was broken when the queen was crowned. The reigning queen and the whole student body looked with pride as the boys walked off with another demon victory.

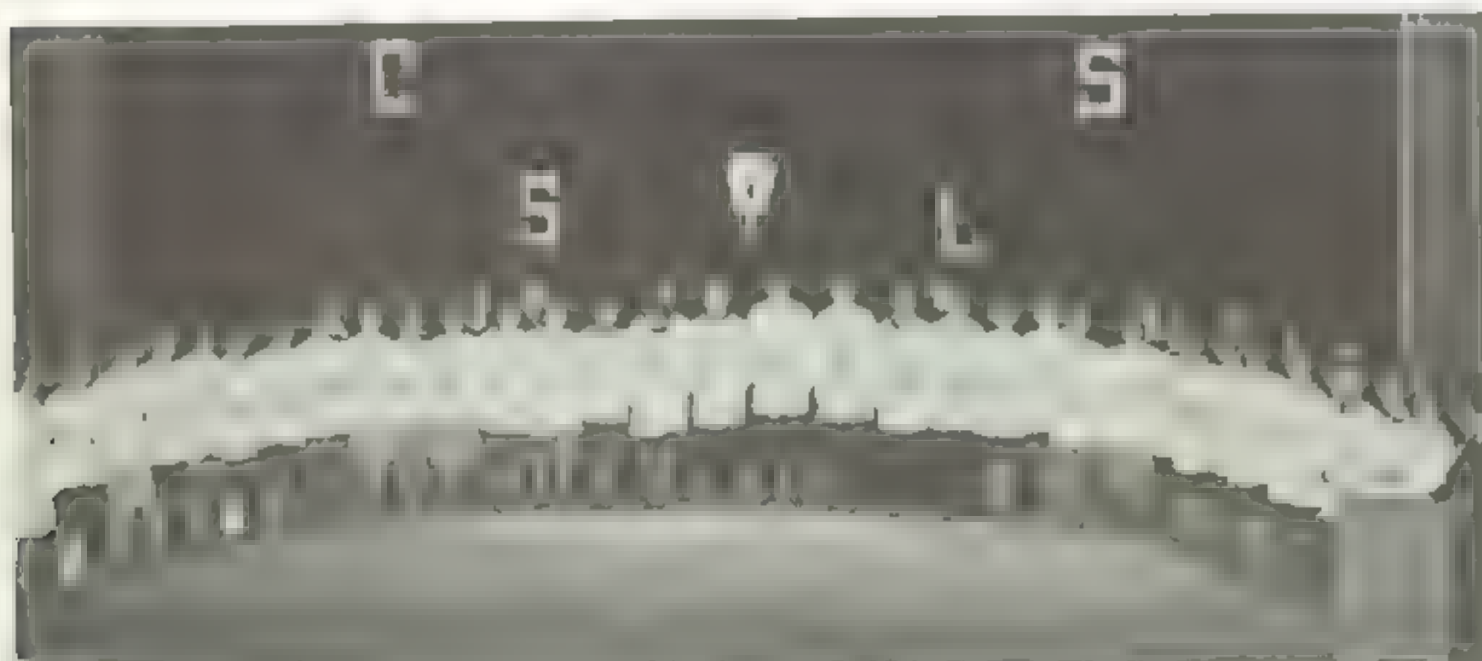

All good things must come to an end, so back to classes and a reminder that this is a scholarly season. Nights found ambitious students studying for their first big tests of the year . . . All of these fond memories were recollected as the journalism students passed out the first issue of the Pine Whispers . . . The Block and Gold staff was deeply indebted to Mr. Charles Talton for taking the seemingly unlimited group pictures. Everyone agreed that this year had started with a wonderful air of animation but seniors turned with a serious expression toward college boards. All of the hard work and service paid off as the Brevard Hoover Chapter of the National Honor Society inducted new members . . . Key Clubbers put up the star to usher in the Christmas season—and then two glorious weeks of vacation. New Year's Day brought many resolutions and plans for the coming year . . . Exams came and students reluctantly spent their four snow days studying. Our wrestling team was on the ball and the basketball team certainly earned their well-deserved name Snow and the cold brisk air was escorted out with the thawing, and then the warmth and cheerfulness of spring entered.

Thoughts of seniors turned toward college

Sunshine . . . and rain . . . and plans for the long-awaited trip to the golden sands of the beach.

The track team broke the string for another victory to mark on the records . . . Baseball was played with enthusiasm and our boys showed the RJR good sportsmanship . . . Twirp Dance came and the girls could be chivalrous for one night as they played chauffeur and chief provider . . . To the upperclassmen the Junior-Senior Prom will be reminisced with sweet memories . . . School was nearing its close and the happy day of the senior picnic finally came.

Afoot and light-hearted
we take to the open road Healthy, free, our life
before us,

-Whitman

We Commend You- Mr. Don Kelly

Always willing to give advice

To many students, Mr. Kelly is a great coach; to others he is a fine teacher, but to all his students he is a friend who is never too busy to help with a problem, to say hello, laugh at a friendly joke or perhaps tell one himself. Generous with a smile and understanding of others, Mr. Kelly has made a place for himself among Reynolds students and teachers. Uniting two powerful forces, a sharp mind and a genial disposition, this teacher is able to assume full responsibility for tasks laid before him. While he is first and foremost a teacher, he is also a coach and loves sports, especially those involving the sea. Mr. Kelly will long be remembered by seniors for his rousing speeches at pep rallies. Because you are helper, teacher, and friend to us, Mr. Kelly, we, the senior class, dedicate to you this edition of the Black and Gold.

Classes

The school is the center of student life aiming at one purpose: to prepare for the future by establishing friendships and utilizing leisure time.

For more information, contact the school at 1234567890 or visit the website at www.1234567890.com

Mr. John Tandy, B.A., M.E. Mr. Tandy, a former teacher and coach at Reynolds, is now in charge of the school's administrative work, including the handling of all correspondence and general office work.

Mr. Robert Deaton, B.S., M.S. Serving as assistant principal, Mr. Deaton is responsible for the supervision of care and discipline of students, the issuance of visual materials, lunch permits, and tardies. Mr. Deaton also checks on athletic eligibility of all school team members.

Miss Mary Jane Baker, B.A., M.F. Miss Baker is in charge of the school's financial affairs, including the collection of tuition and the disbursement of funds.

Miss Jane Weaver, B.A. Preparing college transcripts for students, Miss Weaver also handles the school's correspondence with colleges and universities.

Mrs. Betty Thompson, Secretary Assistant attending to innumerable duties in the school office, Mrs. Thompson is also the bookkeeper, and secretary to the principal. Her work can be the most important.

Mrs. Mae McCuen, Secretary Filing, typing, and answering the phone in the office, Mrs. McCuen, assistant secretary, does not have to look far to find things to occupy her time.

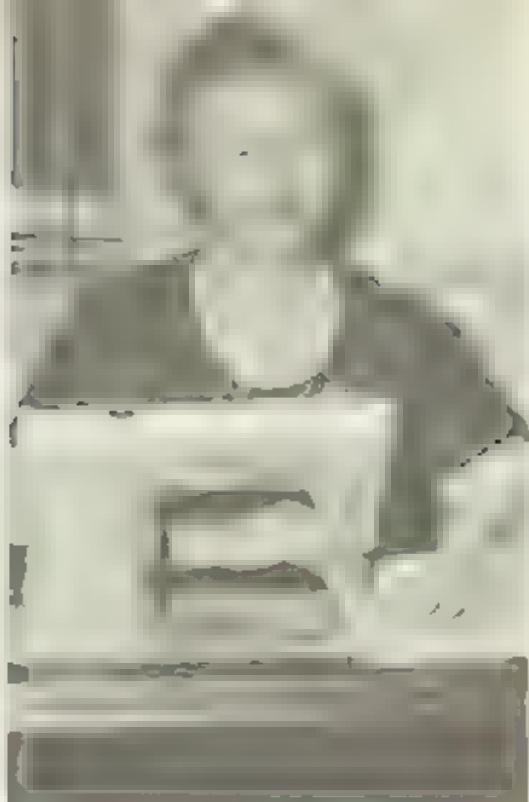

Science Department

Miss Matalline Collette, B.A., M.E. In addition to being head of the Science Department and teaching chemistry, Miss Collette serves as co-sponsor of the National Honor Society

Mrs. Catherine Steelman, B.S., M.E. Mrs. Steelman, who teaches Advanced Placement Biology as well as the first year course, is always willing to identify strange objects found in dissection work

Mrs. Ardene Crover, B.A., B.S. As head of the Home Economics Department, Mrs. Crover displays unlimited talents with a sewing machine. She is also an expert in cooking, decorating, and handicrafts

Mr. Franklin Edwards, B.S. A newcomer to Reynolds, but at home with such instruments as the bioscope, Mr. Edwards shares his knowledge of the world of science with his biology and chemistry students

Mr. William Webster, B.S., M.E. Often seen in unusual places after school collecting biological specimens or conducting field trips, Mr. Webster biology teacher and track coach, shows a snake to his students

Mrs. Margaret Pettyjohn, B.S. No, it's not kindergarten. It's Mrs. Pettyjohn's physics class. She uses tangible objects to explain abstract principles

Mr. Louie Joe Strickland, B.A. After creating charts on the blackboard Mr. Strickland, biology teacher, points out the anatomy of lower-class plants and animals to his students

Mr. Norfleet Jarrell, B.S. After a day of explaining the wonders of science to his students, Mr. Jarrell, sponsor of the Science and Photography Service Clubs, finds relaxation in his hobby of ceramics

English Department

Mrs. Hazel Stephenson, B.A., M.A. A typical scene of Mrs. Stephenson and of her class. Mrs. Stephenson sees that Reynolds students are well equipped for the future.

Mrs. Jewell Collier, B.A. This typical scene of Mrs. Collier and a sophomore literature book tells a story of its own. Mrs. Collier also teaches her husband's subject.

Mrs. Mae Thornton, B.A., M.A. Mrs. Thornton teacher in the English Department. Mrs. Thornton points to the chalkboard.

Mrs. Martha Mitchell, B.A. Mrs. Mitchell teaching in the English Department. Mrs. Mitchell is the English teacher.

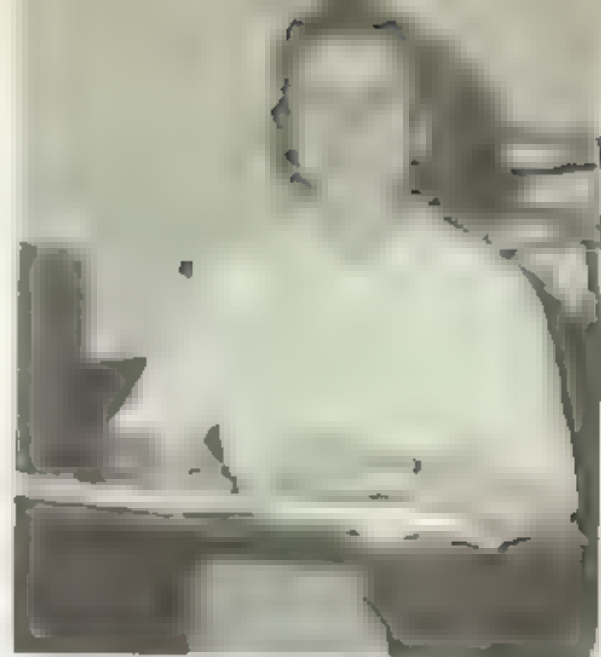

Mrs. Evelyn Garrison, B.A., M.E. Aside from teaching English and Public Speaking Mrs. Garrison sponsors the English Club and spends many hours coaching the debate team for speaking debates.

Mr. James Anderson, B.A., M.A. Advanced Placement teaching is nothing new to Mr. Anderson as he helped develop a similar course. Next to English, he enjoys music and refinishing furniture.

Miss Lillian Trimble Rhodes, B.A., M.A. Students of Miss Rhodes, senior English teacher, find that her class is one made interesting by her lectures on modern-day happenings and her ability to suggest good reading in varied areas.

Mrs. Marjorie Stephenson, B.A. Mrs. Stephenson ably serves as Dean of Girls and as a sophomore English teacher. In addition, she is in charge of the Nurse's Room.

Mrs. Cecile Herriman, B.A., M.A. After a day of teaching junior English, Mrs. Herriman, a member of a teacher's sorority, the A.D.K., likes to go home to her family and a bridge game.

Mrs. Julia Ebert, B.A. Teaching high school students English is not unlike climbing Mt. Everest, but Mrs. Ebert always meets this challenge and wins students with a thorough explanation and a smile.

Miss Martha McBryer, B.A. Pointing out the correct form for writing along with teaching grammar and literature for sophomore and junior English, Miss McBryer sponsors the N.F.L. and enjoys golfing.

Miss Elizabeth Kapp, B.A. Calling attention to home work assignments is one of Miss Kapp's duties as junior English and accelerated junior English teacher. Second period finds her in the office contacting absentees.

Mrs. Janice Owings, B.A., M.A. Besides supervising the ever-busy journalism students in their work on the Black and Gold and the Pine Whispers, Mrs. Owings teaches sophomore English, including the accelerated group.

Language Department

Mrs. Annie Preston Feazington B.A., M.A., M.S. F.
 English, Spanish, Latin, French, Italian, German, Russian, Japanese, Chinese, Korean, Hawaiian, and other languages.

Mrs. Elsie Hampton, B.A. Whether teaching or sponsoring the Spanish Club, Mrs. Hampton, a native of Cuba, is always willing to lend a helping hand to her students.

Mrs. Margaret McDermott B.A., M.A., M.S. F.
 English, Spanish, Latin, French, Italian, German, Russian, Japanese, Chinese, Korean, Hawaiian, and other languages.

Miss Julie Summerall, B.A. Miss Summerall, an energetic and Spanish teacher, directs the visiting Chinese students to the Japanese and the Italian study of the year.

Mrs. Eileen Hepler B.A. F. Hepler, as she is called, is a teacher with audio-visual aids and Miss Mary Martin, B.A. During her recent visit to Rome, Miss Martin was like the pictures displayed above. She teaches the history of the National Honor Society.

Miss Jeannette McDonald, B.A. While teaching French, I, and I, Miss McDonald finds the language lab a necessary help in oral practice

Mrs. Mary Green, B.A., P.E. The motto might be the motto borne out by Mrs. Green as she shows her Latin class various pictures from Italy and Rome

Physical Education Department

Mr. Herman Bryson, B.S., M.A. Mr. Bryson, head of the boy's athletic department, checks student lockers. Not only does he teach athletics, but he also helps boys to become more responsible citizens

Mr. Ray Whitley, B.A. A "smashing success" at R.J.R.—not just in classes, but with varsity sports as well, our coach leads us on to victory

Mrs. Tewannah Bradley, B.S. After a day of teaching physical education and assisting with extracurricular sports, Mrs. Bradley relaxes with a good book or favorite record

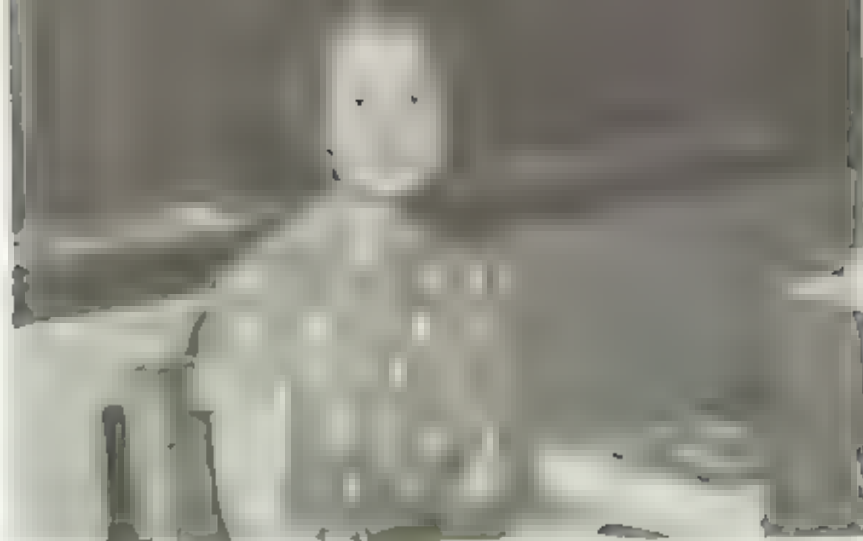

Mrs. Violet Nichols, B.S. Because she is a physical education teacher, A.A. coach, and varsity sports coach, all rolled into one, Mrs. Nichols rarely has a spare moment

History Department

Mrs. Hazel Fack, B.A. Mrs. Fack teaches American History. She is a very busy woman, but when she finds a quiet moment, she likes to read a good book.

Mrs. Mary Pearce, B.A. Teaching World and American history keeps Mrs. Pearce busy, but when she finds a quiet moment, she likes to read a good book.

Mr. Dan Kelly, B.A., M.E. Mr. Kelly teaches American History. He is a very busy man, but when he finds a quiet moment, he likes to read a good book.

Miss Irene D'Mahols, B.S. Miss D'Mahols teaches American History. She is a very busy woman, but when she finds a quiet moment, she likes to read a good book.

Mr. McLeon Mitchell, B.S., M.A. Mr. Mitchell teaches Advanced Placement World History, a course in the Arts and Humanities, and American history, and still finds time to sponsor the Key Club.

Mr. Shirley Wilson, B.S., M.E. Mr. Wilson teaches American History. He is a very busy man, but when he finds a quiet moment, he likes to read a good book.

Mr. Ronald Goins, B.S. Passing a moment to collect his thoughts. Mr. Goins prepares for a class in psychology. In addition, he teaches American History and coaches the swimming team.

Miss Annie Graham Caldwell, B.A., B.S. As sponsor of the Chieftains and the Peewee, and as well as an American history teacher, Miss Caldwell is always willing to lend a helping hand.

Mr. Doug Croter, B.S. Director of football and wrestling. Mr. Croter is a hard hat teacher, according to the students, as he is in the gym and in the classroom.

Music Department

Mr. Alvin Myerovich, B.M., M.A. Leading string instrumental programs, quartets, ensembles and orchestras, Mr. Myerovich hopes to develop a Winston-Salem Forsyth County School orchestra with Reynolds as its nucleus.

Mr. LeRue Epler, B.S., M.A. As band director and music instructor, Mr. Epler is always searching for new and interesting music. He also offers advice to the Dancing Boots.

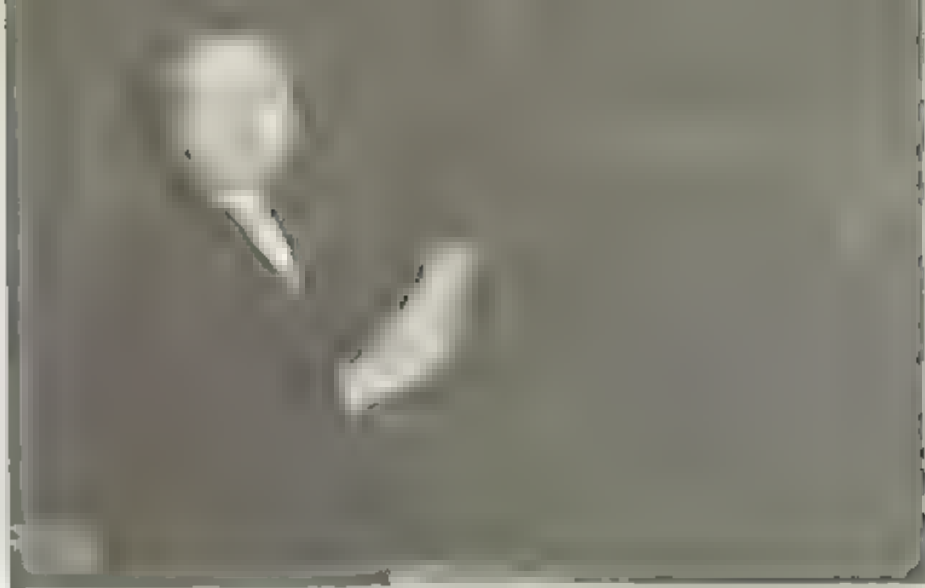

Miss Gloria Houston, B.A. Directing a part of the school music program as chorus instructor and fine arts teacher, Miss Houston commences to lead her class in a chapel rehearsal.

Mathematics Department

Mrs. Sarah Frost, B.A., M.A., Army, was a member of the Mathematics Department for many years.

Mrs. Lucinda Moser, B.A. Enjoyment can be found in your own backyard as to Mrs. Moser math teacher and Math Club sponsor, who was with us for many years.

Mrs. Madeline Grogan, B.A. Two positive numbers added together to become a negative number.

Mrs. Caroline Spencer, B.S., M.A., former member of the Mathematics Department and aid for the C.I.D. was with us for many years.

Mr. K. M. Peters, B.A., former member of the Mathematics Department and aid for the C.I.D. was with us for many years.

Mrs. Katherine Reich, B.A. Always busy with solving equations and constructing triangles, Mrs. Reich shows her students some short-cuts. Sponsoring the House Court and attending school athletic activities have also become part of her busy schedule.

Miss Margaret Eason, B.S. Encouraging her students to

Librarians

Mrs. Elizabeth Stroupe, B.A. surrounded by books on varied subjects and reading levels Mrs. Stroupe enjoys helping students, as well as performing the many other duties of a school librarian

Mrs. Elizabeth Sink, B.A., M.A. Active in the library, co-
the and Advanced Placement English
Mrs. Sink helps an interested student with a reference problem

Commercial Department

Miss Hazel McKeet, B.A., M.E. Miss McKeet who heads the Commercial Department has many years of experience in commercial education and is also a member of the Student Council.

Mrs. Louise Still, B.A. As if teaching typing and shorthand are not enough to keep Mrs. Still busy, she also finds time to read, sew, and garden.

Mrs. Clara Fitzhugh, B.S. Typing, book-keeping, Business English, and Business Law are the subjects taught by Mrs. Fitzhugh. Here, she is pictured helping a student line the margins of her paper.

Mr. Norman Barringer, B.A. Mr. Barringer, who teaches classroom and motor driving, has time to tell of his varied experiences with student drivers.

Driver Education

Mr. Michael Pelech, B.A. Trusting his life with anxious, but trusting, students, Mr. Pelech began a new day teaching them how to operate a motor vehicle.

Industrial Education

Mr. Clark Taylor, B.S. Mr. Taylor, who teaches Industrial Education, has many years of experience in industrial education and is also a member of the Student Council.

Mr. Jack Driver, B.S. Mr. Driver, who teaches Industrial Education, has many years of experience in industrial education and is also a member of the Student Council.

Distributive Education

Mr. Edwin West Jr., B.S. Distributive education is new at Reynolds this year. Mr. West teaches Business theory and students practice this theory by actually working with local business firms.

Seniors

"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness, . . . we had everything before us, we had nothing before us . . ."

-Charles Dickens

Soon we shall don our caps and gowns, hear our alma mater echo through the night, and remember forever the phrase "Our every need she sees, and leads always." We shall always recall our years at Reynolds with pride even though we must leave and go in many different directions. As Seniors we are thankful for the help that we have received as we have grown and progressed during the three years we have been here. We remember the cooperation, friendship, and exchange of ideas between the faculty and the students. We look with pride on our school—outstanding in academics, sports, and spirit—and we realize that though we leave the walls of Reynolds, we shall always be guided by the memory of the wonderful years we have spent here.

The senior class presents with pride their Superlatives

All the seniors agree that Roger Pike and Pam Huband are Best All Around

Danny Cornelius and Judi Dean have shown by their utmost regard for everyone that they are Kindest in the senior class

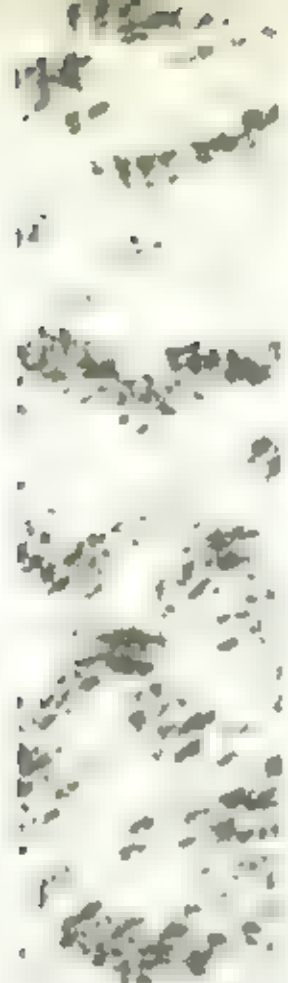

Because of their high qualities of leadership, Gordon Jenkins and Janie Meschan have been voted Most Likely to Succeed

Linda White and Steve Swain have been elected by the seniors as Best Looking

Because of their admirable personalities, Eddie Arrington and Pam Hubbard were chosen Most Popular

Long hours of hard study have earned John Morse and Pam Davis the title of Most Intellectual

As Wittiest in the senior class, Grace Mitchell and Charles Day kept everyone laughing

Friendliest, Roger Pike and Judi Dean, always greet everyone with a big smile

Because of participation in varsity sports, Joe Testo and Bee Forester were selected Most Athletic.

Pam Davis was selected from all juniors as D.A.R. Good Citizen for 1963-64. She was chosen for her outstanding character and her leadership and citizenship qualities.

Janie Mescham and John Morse were selected as Reynolds representative to Girls' and Boys' State.

Lineman Don Hensley was selected to participate in the Shrine Bowl which was held in Charlotte, N. C. Each year boys are named from the various schools in North and South Carolina.

Outstanding students receive honors and distinction

Bob Kulp, a member of the class day committee, was named Student of the Year by the Journalism Department. Bob, who is also in the S.S.C. and on the golf team, was chosen on the basis of his academic achievement and his service to the school.

For her enthusiastic and responsible work on the annual and newspaper, Judy White, a third-year student and co-editor of the Black and Gold, was named Journalism Student of the Year by students in the Journalism Department.

Juniors

"Build thee more stately mansions, O my Soul As the swift seasons roll"

-Holmes

School's opening in the fall of 1963 found, as usual, some frightened sophomores entering our hallowed halls, but they were different from the tenth-graders of '62, because those earlier sophomores had grown and matured. They had worked their way through the first year of high school and this school term they entered with the thought, "It is not just another year for us, it is our junior year."

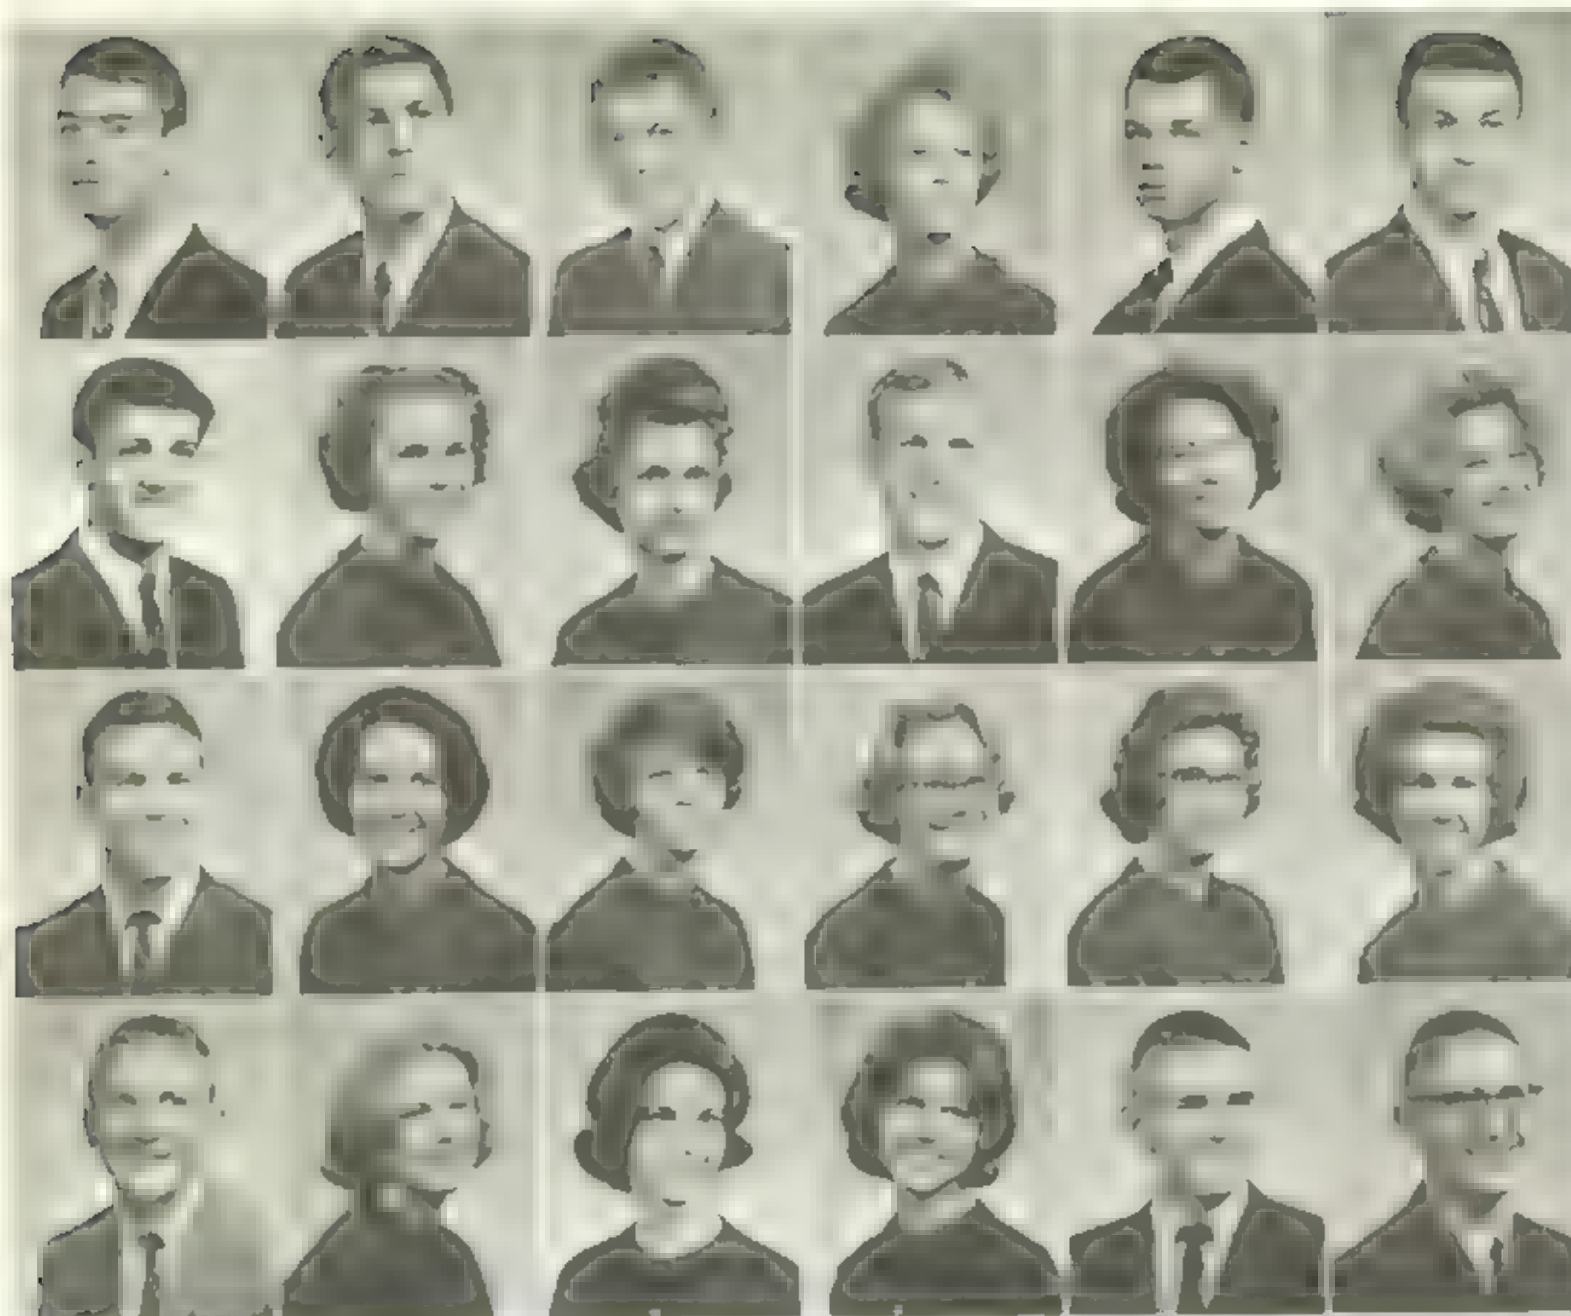

We entered school looking forward to an active, fruitful year—and such it proved to be. Of course, there were a few painful moments. Exams were tougher; there were college boards and PSAT, English, Latin, chemistry and American History. But, who can forget the thrill of being "upperclassmen?" All juniors in the early days of September watched the sophomores with a twinge of pity and a lot of pleasure. After all, we had passed that stage of confusion.

As juniors, we got our first chance for honor society inductions. We played an ever-increasing role in sports. With the spring, the coveted class rings arrived. To round out a wonderful nine months, juniors planned and played host at the lovelier-than-ever Junior-Senior.

Still, we have not stopped maturing. Our second year at Reynolds was better than the first, and as junior days draw to a close, we prepare for the final step before graduation—the senior year.

"There is a tide in the affairs of men, Which taken at the flood leads on to fortune: Omitted, all the voyage of their life Is bound in shallows and in miseries."

-Shakespeare

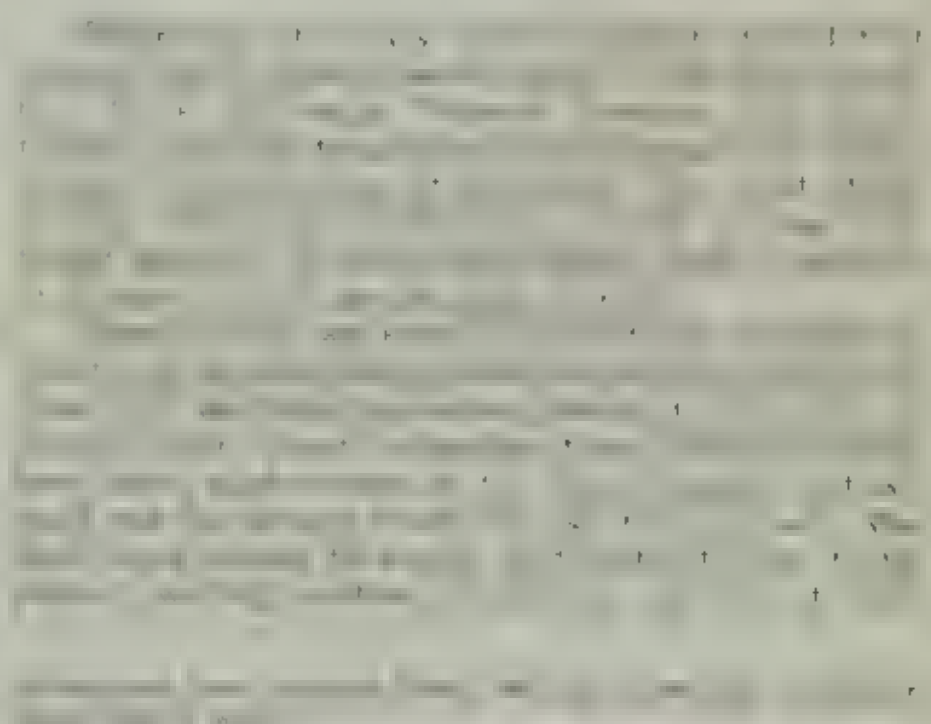

Firmly stamped in our memory is that bright September morning not too long ago when six hundred slightly bewildered sophomores reported to the gymnasium for the first day at Reynolds High School.

With the month of August still on the calendar, many sophomores were already working with the band, boys, and J. V. team. Then football season arrived, bringing with it pep rallies, send-offs, dances, and as a climax, the game.

After a few mishaps and schedule rearrangements, we settled down to school routine—and the formation of clubs. There had been clubs before, but never quite so many. Which was the one to choose—Latin? French? Spanish? Science? Dramatics? or one of the many others? Soon we were an active part of the student body.

Mrs. Annie Preston Fearrington, class sponsor.

Student Council enforces the Honor System at Reynolds

Student Council members found themselves busy with future plans as early as May of 1963. By September things were in full-swing for the North Carolina Student Congress to be at Reynolds in November. This was a great honor for the Reynolds student body and the Council made every effort to make the NCSCC a success.

Early in the school year the Council distributed handbooks to sophomores and all new students entering Reynolds. These were helpful booklets that acquainted new students with their school.

At the beginning of the second semester two new members were elected from the sophomore class. This gave the Council complete representation from all classes and a broader view of the opinions of the students they represent.

House of Representatives keeps school grounds clean

Courtesy and cooperation among Reynolds students are two main goals of the House of Representatives. Striving to improve the general welfare of the school, the representatives, one from each home-room, are chosen by fellow students on their worthiness. Appeals from the House have been made to the students regarding the problems of breaking into lunch lines and of keeping the campus grounds

Working hard on all phases of student life, the House has tried to eliminate discourtesies of the minority, which has added to the comfort of the majority. Diligent effort put forth by the House of Representatives has made Reynolds High School an alma mater of which to be proud

Black and Gold staff presses toward deadline

Perhaps there are few places busier than the journalism room. While other students walk into class to take daily notes or do another math, French, or Latin exercise, journalism students can never know what to expect. As the reporter or photographer looks around the corner of the door, he probably will see someone typing, another collecting pages of script, another looking frantically through stacks of pictures for one that has on the front row: "L. Black, D. Blane, A. Aring . . ." It takes a calm editor to cope with the many delays. During several days of closed schools many things piled up, bringing the following reactions: "We've got to get those pictures taken!" "We're out of flashbulbs!" "No, we just can't have a delay on the deadline!" "Who was supposed to write the script for the band page?"

Is it a miracle that the Black & Gold turns out as well as it does? Many think so, but any journalism student will tell you a great deal of hard work is behind that miracle—together with fun and an abundance of maturing experiences.

Photographers L. Boyles, J. Middleton, T. Ward, F. Wiegold and B. Mickey were always on the scene

Pine Whispers edits news

Drawing layouts, writing and re-writing articles, gathering all the material to be typed, preparing last-minute assignments, deciding on headlines, originating captions for pictures, and arranging the paper keep the staff of the Pine Whispers busy as the deadline for printing approaches four times a year.

Staff members search Reynolds, seeking new ideas for editorials, news, features, and sports. First-year students in preparation for their jobs next year help write articles and gather information.

As deadline time draws near, co-editors Beth Kirsch and Jeff Farran accompanied by sponsor Mrs. Janice Owings make numerous trips to the publisher. After the paper is returned from the publisher the staff counts out copies for each subscriber and takes them to the proper homeroom for distribution.

J. White, D. Little, N. Louerman, and S. Brewer discuss the technicalities of having a balanced layout.

Wearing long black robes and carrying white candles, old members tap new inductees into the Brevard Hoover Chapter of the National Honor Society.

Helping with PTA Open House, sponsoring the Faculty Appreciation Day, serving as guides on College Day and the first day of school keep the members busy throughout the year.

Miss Mataline Collette and Miss Mary Martin, co-sponsors for the club, advise the group every other Wednesday at the 8-10 meetings.

Quill and Scroll Inducts journalists

An international honor society for outstanding journalism students, the activities of the Reynolds High School chapter of the Quill and Scroll consist primarily of publishing Pine Whispers and the Black and Gold.

Staff members send to the press four papers a year and accept the responsibility for the Black and Gold.

Sponsored by Mrs. Janice Owings members must have an honor average, be juniors or seniors, maintain an E on department, and do distinctive work in journalism

Hard work and a genuine enthusiasm are characteristic of members of the Masque and Gavel. Composed of outstanding students from the areas of drama and public speaking, the Masque and Gavel promotes general interest in drama and speaking among Reynolds students. Along with outstanding participation in drama and public speaking, a potential member of the Masque and Gavel must keep an honor average in order to become and stay a member of the society.

French National Honor Society inducts outstanding students

Students work hard to be chosen for the French National Honor Society and work even harder to keep their coveted place after acceptance from the ten per cent of the French classes. One must know thoroughly both the classroom work and the language, and participate in extra curricular activities concerning the Romance language, either in a group or as an individual.

C. Smith, S. Shirley, B. Freeman, J. Meschan, S. J. Stewart, G. Jenkins, C. Lambeth

Members of the National Forensic League are a group of diligent Reynolds students who are interested in public speaking and debate. Points are gained for each debate and public appearance in which the student being considered for the League participates. A total of twenty-five points must be gained before acceptance into the National Forensic League.

The Key Club began its service projects last summer when it marked off and numbered separate parking places for each teacher in the teacher's parking lot. The club followed up this project by giving pen-nants to the majorettes and cheerleaders, numbering and carrying books for the teachers, selling novelties before the football games, supplying drinks for the cheerleaders during games, and repainting the pool in the court. It also repaired and painted the wooden benches around the cafeteria and collected a truck-load of toys for needy children at Christmas.

By collecting money at basketball games and on the streets, members contributed over $100 to the March-of-Dimes. Two big projects rounded out the year. One, the annual Key Club Follies, attracted hundreds of students and adults to relive "Our American Heritage". The other, the construction of an outdoor amphitheater, was undertaken for both the school and the community. Mr. Ray Whitley, faculty advisor, offered plenty of physical and moral support during the year.

This year the club adopted Phan Van Hue as its Foster child

A Club always on the move Senior Service Club

Symbolic of true service is the Senior Service Club, which is made up of many boys with varied talents and abilities

Every morning before a regular season football game, the members cheerfully distributed beat-em tags which aided greatly in generating a winning spirit. The cheerleaders stand, used in every home game, was reconstructed and painted by this year's members

Maintenance of the Senior Service Club court was a year-round project. With much success the annual Christmas tea was again given. The removal of ice and snow from the walks and the cleaning of lockers during club initiation were among other activities of the club this year

The Senior Service Club is in truth synonymous with school spirit and service

Pep Board Council members Jean Levin, Lee Todd and Sherry DeLeon, put up football cut-outs as council member Dinah Little holds the ladder for them

Spectaculars were highlights of a spirited week

Every Friday during football season the Pep Board had a spectacular in Victory Hall

Martha Lentz and Pam Shore worked hard as co-chairmen of the Pep Board

Creating an atmosphere of active participation in all student activities challenges the members of the Pep Board to the responsibility of promoting school spirit. Meeting every Monday after school, representatives from the homerooms, who make up the club, plan the publicity for school sports, as well as the chapel programs set aside for pep rallies. "Victory Hall" is often the scene of Pep Board members erecting symbols of encouragement towards victory.

Two senior co-chairmen and an executive board of four seniors led the group, with Mrs. Caldwell as their sponsor. The Pep Board would not be complete without the cheerleaders and majorettes, who are honorary members.

Miss Caldwell was always willing to listen to problems and to give advice to Pam and Martha

Teenage Council sponsors activities for students

Members listen to suggestions concerning the dance at the armory

With the help of their sponsor, Mrs. Margaret Howard of the City Recreational Department, the Teenage Council sponsored many activities for the students. After each football game sock hops were held in the Reynolds gym. For Halloween, members wrapped presents for the elementary students who attended the parades at the various parks throughout the city. In November the Chessman Combo provided music for a dance held in the gym. The Council sponsored the annual dance at the armory, and the twirp dance where the girls played gents.

Each fall and spring representatives from each class elect new members.

The Teenage Council provides fun for all students as well as members. The officers, Mary Jane Amos, president; Terri Strug, vice-president; and Jerri Strug, secretary, led the council through a year of hard work, planning, and fun.

Service to the school is the main objective of the Serviteers

The Serviteers is a loosely bound group of junior girls who are organized for the purpose of serving Reynolds in whatever way they are able. As they have no large projects of their own, they are called upon to help with various functions throughout the school year. Although their service is irregular, it is nonetheless sincere and generous as they contribute to the growth, development, and meaning of the spirit of Reynolds High School.

Practices with the band help the boots perfect their routines

Precision and perfection describe the seventypert Dancing Boots. Many weeks were spent during the summer months learning new routines and practicing the familiar ones. Emily Bryant and Helen Harmon, co-choreographers, made up the dances and taught them to the boots while Chief Pam Huband kept order and led the dances. Students looked forward to each football game when the Boots performed at half-time. The exactness of these shining girls earned for them an invitation to Toronto, Canada, with the band to perform for the International Lion's Club Convention

PAM HUBBARD
Chief

Smiles, waist-high kicks, rhythm—all these are characteristic of our majorettes. A band would not be complete without these sparkling girls to add color and variety to performances. Few spectators realize the many tedious hours of hard work and practice that lie behind their distinct twirling routines and dance steps. On occasions they used novel costumes that harmonized with the theme of the half-time show and added a unique flavor to it. The majorettes also performed for civic organizations, delighting young and old alike.

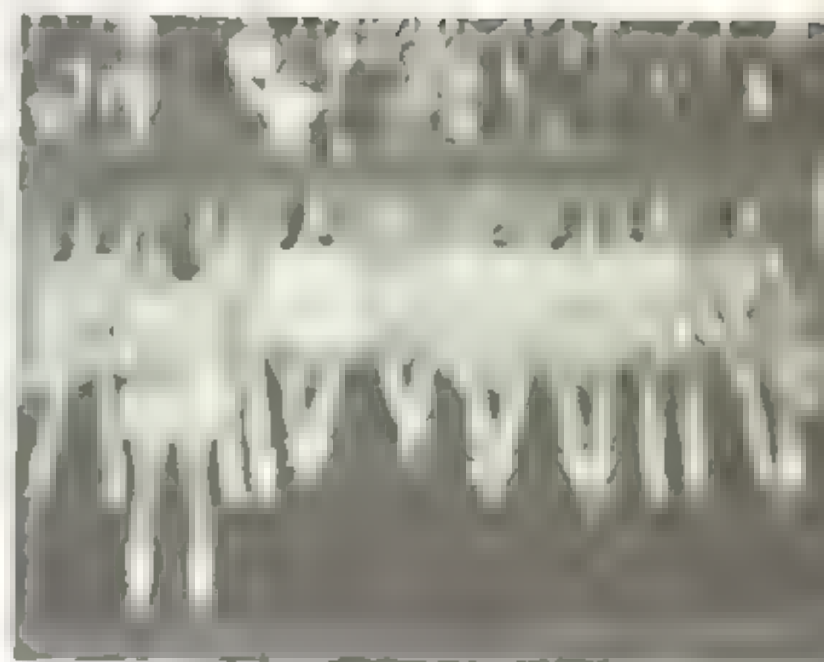

Shine for dear ole Reynolds!

During football season the cheerleaders kept the team's spirit high

Boosting school spirit and spurring the team on to a victory posed the main responsibility of the cheerleaders. Many hours were spent in practicing new cheers and in improving familiar ones. These girls were tireless at every game and, no matter what the outcome, they never conceded defeat. Neither rain nor snow hindered them in carrying out their duties.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Caldwell, the cheerleaders aroused much of the enthusiasm and morale which accompanied athletic events this year.

The Reynolds High School Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Alvin Myerovich has a threefold objective: to perform with emphasis on musical values; to serve the school and the community; and to provide a goal for the incoming freshmen musicians.

Orchestra participation in the Christmas program points the way to further collaboration with the choral and drama departments.

A bright future is predicted for the orchestra as a result of renaissance of string instruction in this area.

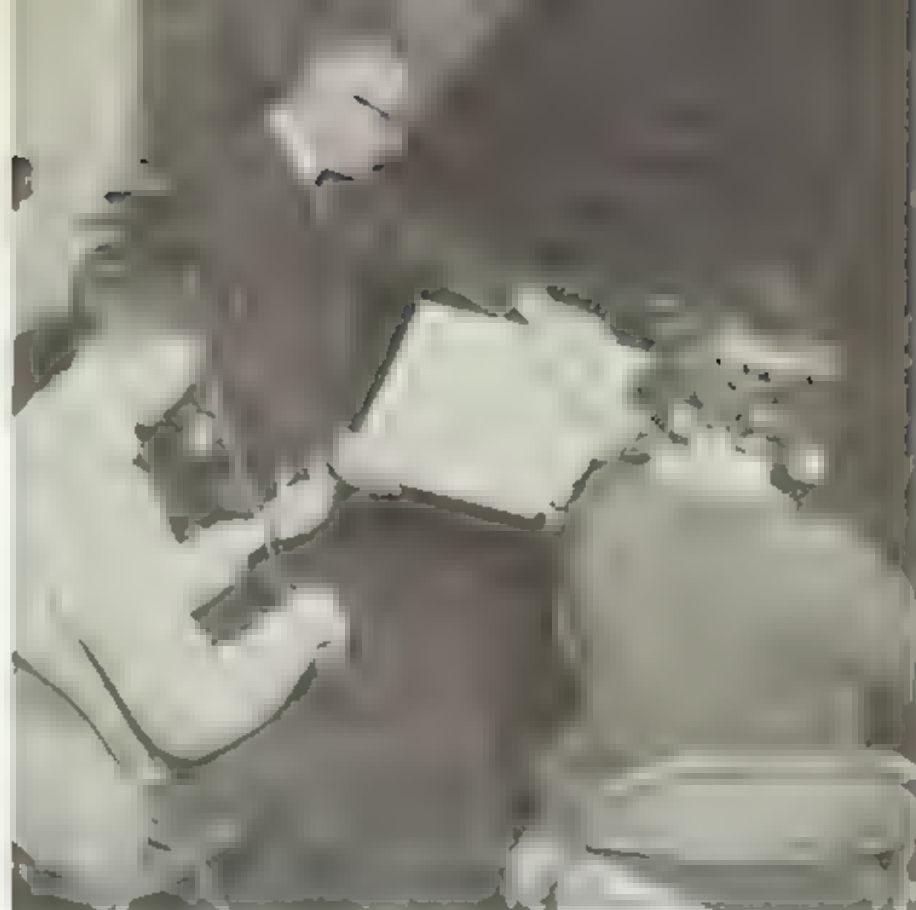

Rebops entertain at basketball half-time

Members of the Rebops, a fully instrumentated stage band, were chosen from an audition. Practice sessions were held weekly.

During recent years the stage band has taken on a new importance, not only for entertainment, but also from an educational point of view. It teaches reading of music, intricate rhythms, and good tone. Also, the stage band emphasizes playing one to a part and depending upon oneself.

Many times throughout the year the Rebops were asked to participate in several school functions. These included playing for the Student Council Convention in November, chapel programs, and the faculty party.

Mr. Myerovich encourages students to strive to perfect the tone of their instruments

A lot of hard summer practice sessions produced a fine RJR Marching Band

During the hot days of August the Marching Band began to practice for the 1963 performing season. Besides participating in the halftime routines at fourteen football games and the Piedmont Bowl Game, the band marched in many parades. The Concert Band rehearsed everyday. Good musicianship is accented and music written especially for the concert band is played. For the first time this year a Wind Ensemble was organized. Seventy members were chosen because of general ability and musical aptitude for this select group.

Reynolds' Band was called upon to play at several city-wide functions throughout the year. As a special honor, they were chosen as the North Carolina State Representative to the Lions International Convention Parade in July, 1964 at Toronto, Canada. Many long hours have been spent in preparation for this trip.

Long hours of hard practice produced an outstanding marching band.

Mr. Epler directed his band toward perfection in sound, and precision in marching.

Margaret McGrane, twirler of the fire baton, stands at attention while the band plays the school alma mater.

Beginning a new year under the direction of Miss Houston, both the girls' chorus and the mixed chorus have had a busy schedule. With class drill and faithful rehearsals, the chorus has beautifully presented three holiday programs, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter, and two concerts. Other activities consisted of traveling to various clubs such as the Ardmore Civic, Kiwanis, and Rotary, and being active in several contests, two of which were in the High Point and Greensboro Music Festivals.

Combining with the mixed chorus for chapel presentations and traveling to other schools were some of the activities of the girls' chorus.

No matter where they performed, robed in black and gold, or in blue jumpers, they presented musical programs with characteristic dignity.

To study the cultural, political, and geographical significance of Germany and the German people is the chief objective of the Reynolds German Club. A club is organized in each class, and the meetings are held during the class period on alternate Wed-

Spanish Club members come from the regularly scheduled Spanish classes. Meetings are held every other week during class time. Programs consist of fiestas at Christmas, foreign exchange students speaking in Spanish of their native countries, student slides of South America, plus projects and reports of current events related to Spanish-speaking countries.

Through these various types of meetings, it is the aim of the club to acquaint students with an informed picture of the life and activities in the other half of the Americas

Senior Backfield

It is a generally accepted fact that every successful football team has a galaxie of stellar backfield performers. Such was the case of the 1963 Reynolds team.

Speedy wingback Eddie Arrington and powerful fullback Joe Newton led the Demons in rushing and scoring. In addition, Arrington was Reynolds' leading pass receiver, snaring five touchdown passes to add to the seven touchdowns he got on the ground.

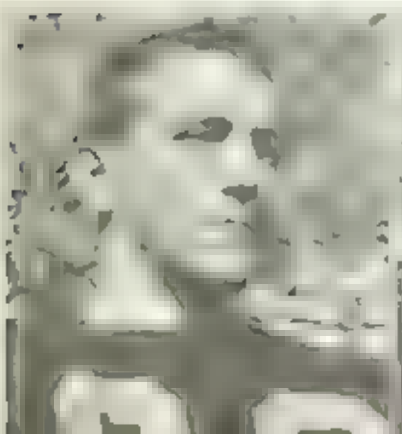

Early in the season, Gene Swearingen shared the offensive duties with Arrington and Newton but an injury sustained prior to the Gray game, severely limited his future activity. Jimmy Loftis then took over the vacated tailback position. His brilliant running, passing, and kicking helped the Demons to several victories, including a prestige win over East.

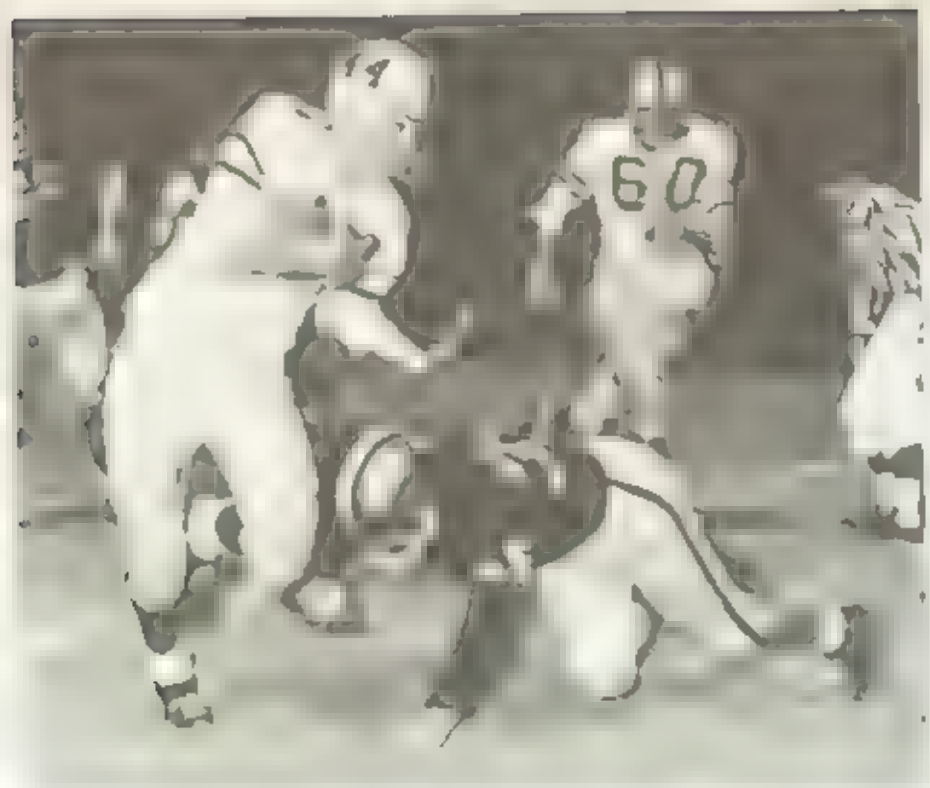

Tom English and Johnny Reaves also played tailback. Reaves, the fastest man on the team, on numerous occasions, outran the opposition for long gains. English completed key passes that proved to be necessary factors in the Demons' drive for the top.

Defensive backfield players also gave creditable performances through the season. With linebackers Rusty Goodwin and Frank Murphy lay the burden of stopping end sweeps before they got started.

Our managers were always on the scene.

Our unsung heroes-the Linemen

If the key to a successful football team is a strong line, then the 1963 Black Demon squad had an excellent team. From end to end on offense and defense, Coach Crater had the material with which to make a powerful line, and he succeeded. Both captains of the team were linemen, Terry McAden and Joe Testo. Terry started at offensive and defensive guard and was on the first all-conference team for the second straight year. Joe Testo, also on the all-conference team, played offensive end and defensive halfback. Don Hensley, probably the most sought after football player in North Carolina, held down a tackle spot on offense and defense. He received the most votes and was named captain of the all-conference team, was chosen to play in the Shrine Bowl game against the South Carolina all-stars and was on the all-state team. Danny Cornelius, the other offensive tackle, was on the second all-conference team. Guard Butch Satterfield was on the number one all-conference team, while end Bill Johnson received honorable mention. Other starters instrumental in the Demon's success were Mack Little, Blake Goslin, Joe Elliot, Bobby Russell, Steve Swain, and Jim Lee. The fact that Reynolds had six linemen gaining all-conference recognition speaks for itself and gives proof of the belief that a stronger line could be found nowhere in the state.

Dan Hensley, Butch Satterfield, Terry McAden, and Eddie Arrington are Reynolds' representatives to the All-Conference team

For the second consecutive year the 1963 Black Demon football team was abundant with talent as the squad finished first in the conference and second in the state. Many players were honored with titles which they received from voting by North Carolina sports writers and coaches. Those who received the honors were Guard Terry McAden, co-captain of the Black Demons, first all-conference team; end Joe Testo, co-captain of the Black Demons, second all-conference team; tackle Don Hensley, all-state, Shrine Bowl Game, East-West All Star Game, co-captain of first all-conference team, outstanding lineman in the Central 4-A Division; wingback Eddie Arrington, All-State, East-West All Star Game, Co-captain of first all-conference team, outstanding back in the Central 4-A Division; guard Butch Satterfield, first all-conference team; fullback Joe Newton, second all-conference team; tackle Danny Cornelius, second all-conference team; end Bill Johnson, honorable mention, all-conference; tailback Jim Loftis, honorable mention, all-conference; tailback Tom English, honorable mention, all-conference

Head Coach, Mr. "Red" Wilson, was behind our team all the way

Our spirit continued through the winter months with Basketball

Every winter the Reynolds gym is rocked with cheers for the Black Demon basketball team. Coach Whitley's 1963-1964 team was one of the finest teams in the history of the school

Led by co-captains David Stroupe and George Leight, the Demons ran up an impressive season's record. Stroupe and Leight, along with Mark Murphy, were chosen to be on the all-conference team. Their rebounding and scoring were integral parts of the Demons' offense and defense

Seniors Rusty Finwall and Bill Spry, and juniors Rick Hemrick and Jim Gilliam also provided the "punch" that elevated Reynolds to a high rank in state basketball polls

Highlights of the season were victories over Grimsley, North Forsyth, East Forsyth, and a homecoming victory over Lexington. The outstanding performance of the team in the Central 4-A Conference led to one of eight berths in the state tournament played in Greensboro, and a second place finish in the state.

Swimmers strive for speed and form

Swimming is a new sport at Reynolds. This body-building part of our athletic program has made great strides with its backstrokes, breaststrokes, individual medleys, and relays.

Danny Capps and Dickie Capps, the co-captains, led their team to second place in the conference. Doing great work throughout the season were Danny Capps, Bob Sheppard, David Pfefferkorn, and L. A. Mayo at freestyles of various distances; Dickie Capps and Everett Thompson at the backstroke; David Pfefferkorn at the butterfly; Doug Mock at the breaststroke; Dickie Capps at the individual medley; and Eddie Arrington and Bill Hart at diving.

Although the team did not attempt to swim across the English Channel, they had great fun during their practices at the Y.W.C.A.

Joe Newton and David Blalock have been strong supporters of this year's wrestling team

Wrestling matches provide much entertainment and excitement throughout the season

Last year at Reynolds, wrestling was started. It has now become a great part of our athletic program. With its half nelsons, head locks, and bear hugs, this healthful sport drew the interest of many rugged individuals. Wrestling has its own scoring point system which gives credit for skill execution or technical maneuvers. A fall or "pin" ends each contest.

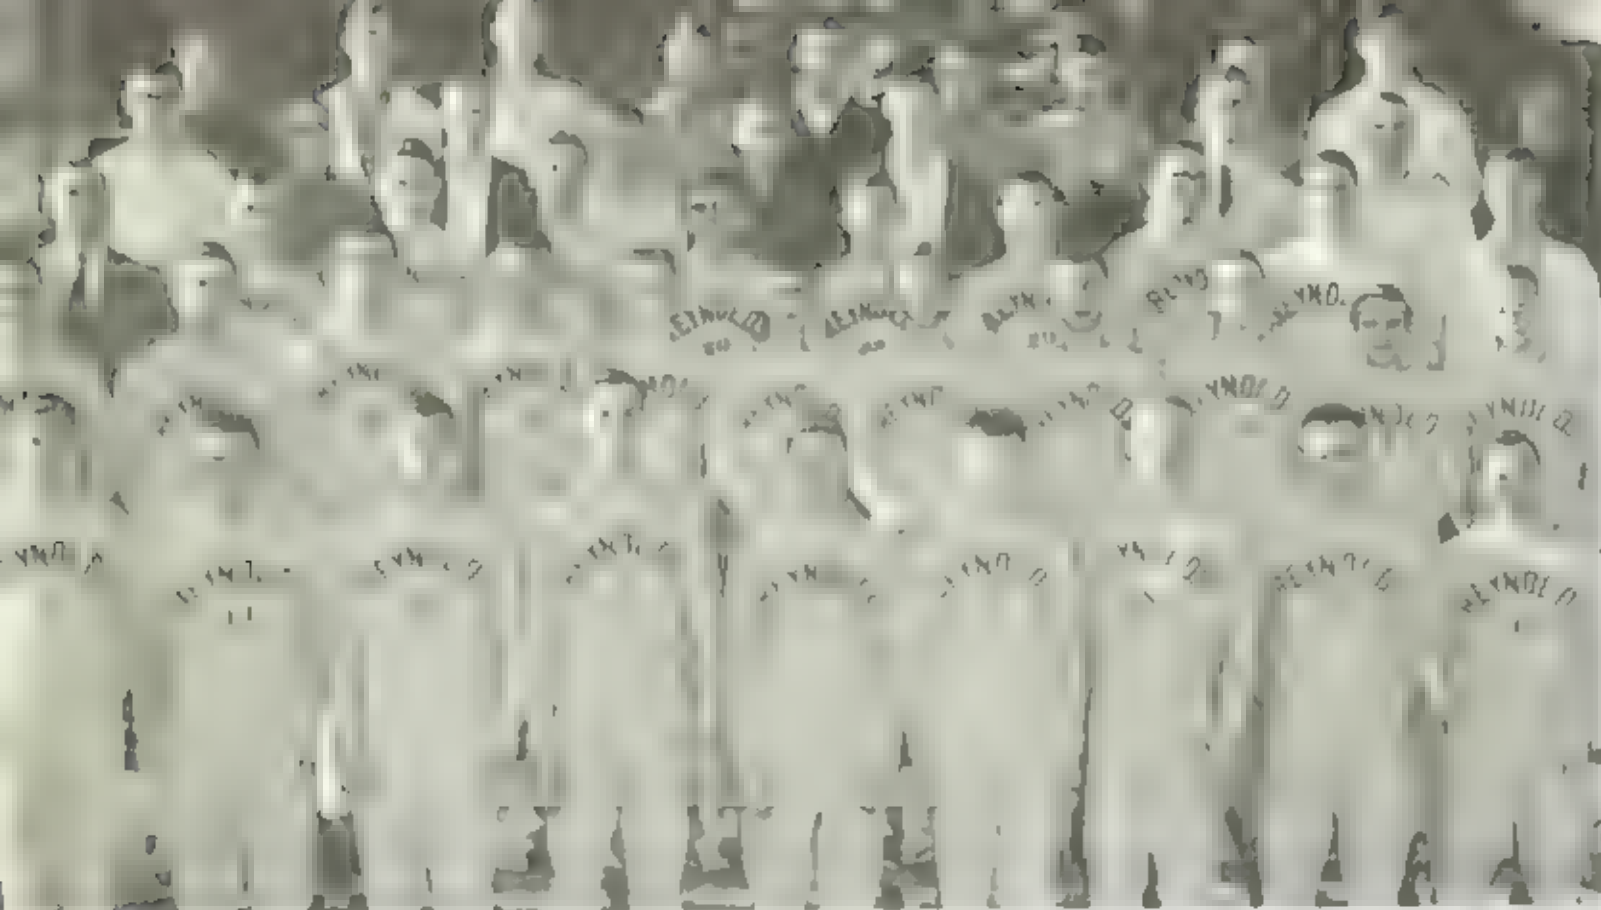

At the end of the season there were still four undefeated members. These were Joe Testo, Gary Dean, Charles Baldwin, and Mike Jordan. After having passed through their tough schedule, Reynolds wrestlers are more than pleased with their records.

Every spring the Reynolds track team looks forward to being rated with the best teams in the state. Coach Webster's boys work year round to keep their high ranking.

March brings the start of the season. Three weeks of hard practice come before the first of the interscholastic competition. Dual and triangle meets are held against the other schools in the Central 4-A Conference. These are followed by the Conference meet when all of the teams come together to decide the champion.

During Easter vacation, the Demons travel to Durham for the Duke-Durham Relays, a special event held annually at Duke University. This invitational meet draws the best school teams from five states.

To decide who goes to the state meet, five sectional meets are held. The State meet, the highlight of the season, decides the best performers and teams in the state.

Cross Country team participates in track events

Every fall a small, dedicated group of Reynolds athletes participate in the sport of cross-country running. This season the Demons compiled a four-one record in dual and triangle meet competition. Against twenty-two of the best teams from two states at the Wake Forest Invitational Meet, the Reynolds team came in sixth. Next was a victory over five area teams in the sectional meet. The final of the season was a sixth-place finish in the state championship race at Chapel Hill

Fighting Methodists had an exciting season

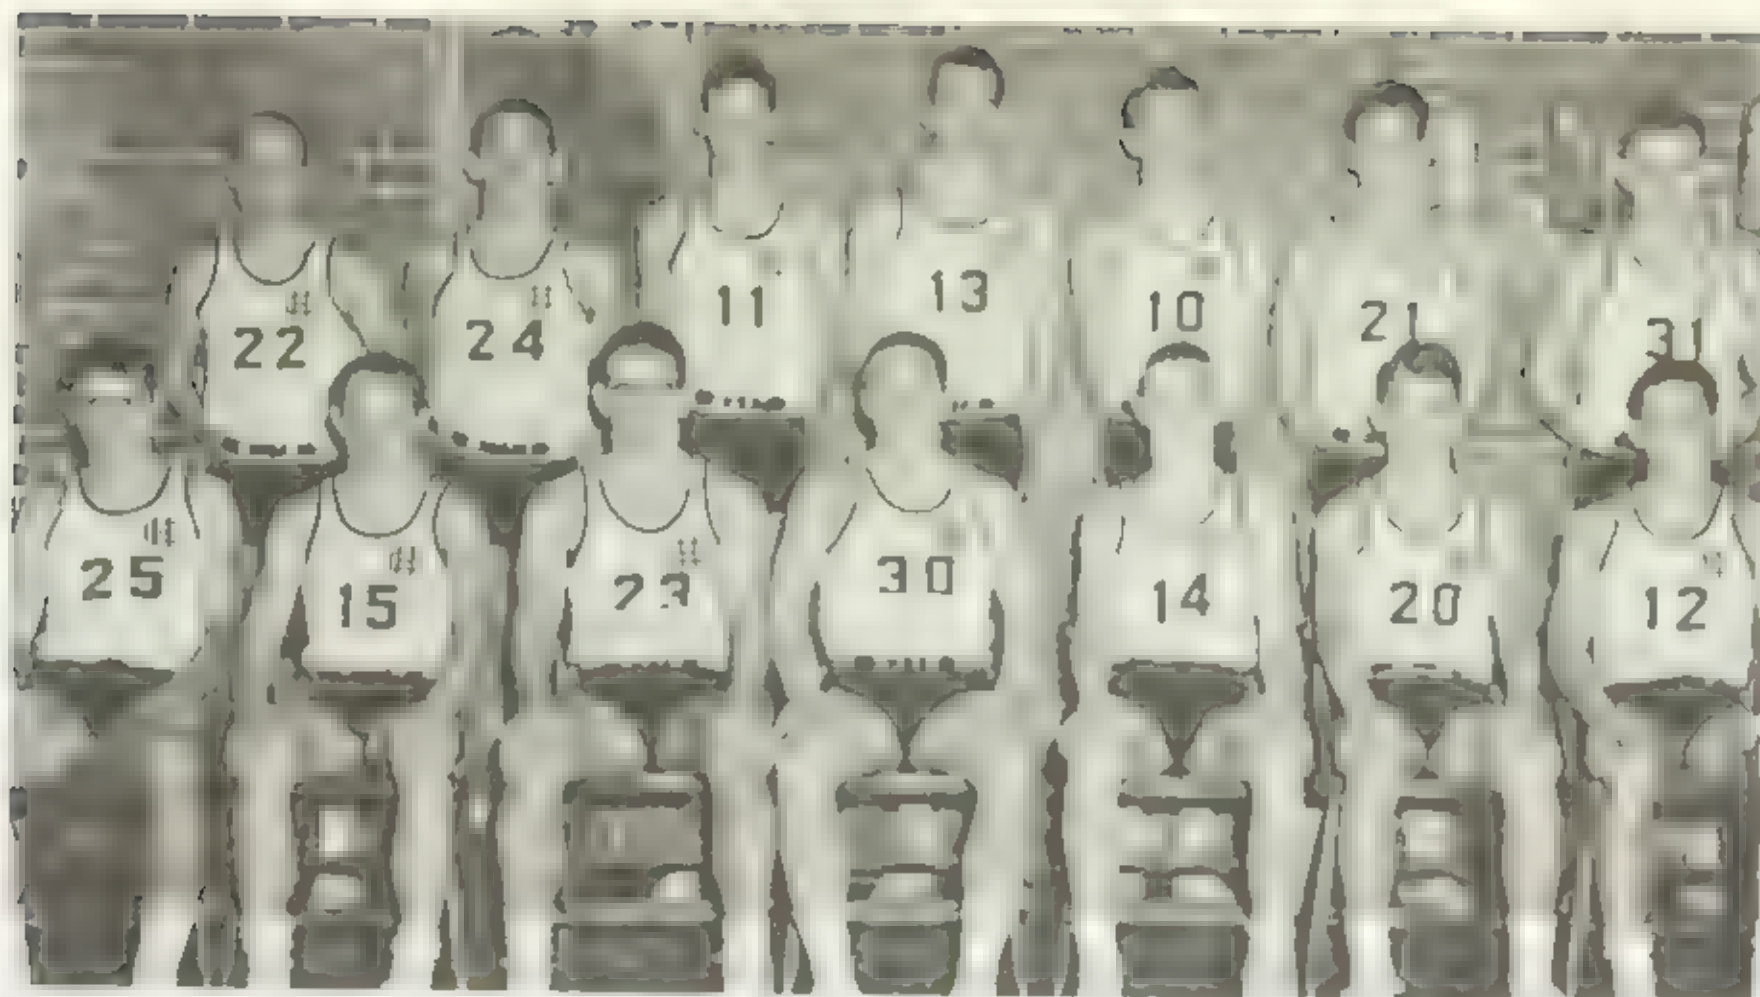

Children's Home upset West Montgomery 19-6 in their first football game of the season. John Weaver, Melvin Hughes, and Doug Barty scored for the Fighting Methodists. In the backfield were Joe Everhart, Roger Staley, Weaver, and Hughes.

Beating West Davidson, 33-0, in their second, interconference game, the Children's Home team went on to shut out Troutman in their third game, 20-3. Roger Staley was the standout player in this game. He scored for the Methodists on a 76-yard punt return. Melvin Hughes later scored with a 40-yard touchdown.

Children's Home suffered its first defeat of the season from West Rowan, 7-2. The Home later lost to East Rowan, and then to Monroe.

Despite several losses, the Children's Home team had an exciting season, and the team was one that we can be proud of.

Girls' sports began with Speedball

Accenting the variety of fall activities for girls is the Varsity Speedball team. Playing around six games each season gives the girls a chance to compete with teams from Gray, East, and North high schools. This season's record of three wins and two losses proves that these girls were a team in the spirit of winning, as well as in the spirit of sportsmanship.

Our girls won many victories because of invigorating pep talks by their coach, Mrs. Nichols.

Good sportsmanship, skill, mental alertness, and good physical condition were all goals our basketball team achieved. The attitude of win if we can and lose if we must proved to be a winning combination for these girls, because the game was always played to

Softball team pitched winning games

When the sun starts shining and the weather warms up, you will see the Reynolds High girls with all of their school spirit on the softball diamond pitching, hitting, and fielding that ole' softball and warming up the bat — getting ready for their games in the spring with teams from other high schools in Winston-Salem.

Girls' Tennis Team matches opponents

You know that when you hear the swish of a racket, the bounce of a ball, and a lot of friendly laughter, it must be the girls' varsity tennis team warming up. Tennis is one of the main highlights of the girls' individual varsity sports. Standing as a symbol of their fight and effort is their outstanding record against such top schools as Greensboro Page, Elkin, and Gray.

Keeping physical education classes running smoothly, the gym leaders perform a service to the teachers as well as to the students. They cooperate with the teachers by taking roll, getting the proper equipment, and acting as shower checkers. These girls have been chosen on the basis of leadership, scholarship, friendliness, and dependability.

Knowing all rulings and how they apply to team sports is the job of the Officials' Club members. They must attend special after school clinics to review all rules of the sport and take a test to show their ability. This club brings girls' intramural sports to a more advanced and competitive level.

GAA believes in a girl for every sport

Organizing the athletic program of intramural sports and encouraging students to participate in the events of their choice, the Girls' Athletic Association ably fulfills the meaning of the motto: "A girl for every sport and a sport for every girl." The G.A.A. Council consists of the sponsor, officers, and heads of each aspect of the activities. Its major functions are scheduling tournaments, promoting physical fitness, and encouraging good sportsmanship.

Class Poem

To forget that where we have been is a part of us though we are not In the end of the day, the end of the world
To get to the bottom of the world

To see the world as it is, not as we see it
For the world is not a place, it is a way of life
To see the world as it is, not as we see it
To see the world as it is, not as we see it

To see the world as it is, not as we see it
To see the world as it is, not as we see it
To see the world as it is, not as we see it
To see the world as it is, not as we see it

How low do we go, how low do we go,
How low do we go, how low do we go,
How low do we go, how low do we go,
How low do we go, how low do we go,

History

In the course of our lives we sometimes arrive at those days when it is suitable to review things past and to dream of things to come. These days are those which separate the old from the new, the end of one phase from the beginning of the next, the days that break the chain of our lives and offer us a chance to take a long look at ourselves.

Our review enables us to relive our joys and our sorrows. It gives us the opportunity to look back and to chuckle at our foolish young selves. Also, we are able to gaze into the crystal ball of the future. Even though our vision is somewhat blurred, we can see ourselves helping to build a brighter tomorrow. Our Class History offers us this time for review and for dreams

TENTH GRADE

As sophomores, considered lowly by everyone but us, we approached Reynolds High School for the first time. Although we were obviously ill at ease, we anxiously looked about for a friend with whom we could appear to be nonchalantly talking until time to go into the auditorium. After we were seated in the auditorium, strangers began filling our already confused minds with a conglomeration of directions, room numbers, instructions, and codes of conduct. It was obvious, however, from our actions of the following weeks that we remembered little of what we had heard. It was amazing to our teachers that students educated in the supposedly superior Junior High system could know so little and misbehave so much. The final blow came when upon giving an assignment a teacher was asked, "But aren't we going to vote on it?"

Yes, we were cocky, but the upper-classmen soon put us in our place. After having been so long at the bottom of the totem pole, they welcomed our arrival as the scapegoat. They howled with glee as we scampered up the "down" stairs or asked the general direction to the office. They derived such a great deal of pleasure from ridiculing us that we feel we deserve partial credit for making their year so enjoyable

It is one of Reynold's most time-honored traditions that the cheerleaders belittle the school spirit of the underclassmen. This was made clear to us when, at the first pep rally, we out-yelled the Juniors and Seniors combined and were still reproved. As sophomores, we were proud of our football team and the members of our class that had made the varsity. Although the season was marred by key injuries, we all looked forward to future football seasons and better times to come

Needless to say, we found Reynolds to be entirely different from Junior High School, and although many of the changes involved hard work, we discovered that there were various fringe benefits. Among these were special interest clubs which met during homeroom, long homeroom periods, and, of course, the frequent chapels. It can never be said that our chapels were monotonous. They included everything from a versatile banjo player, to that unforgettable motion picture epic "From Dodas to Devil Rays." During several chapels we enjoyed listening to our band, which became nationally known when it appeared on coast-to-coast television for the Washington Redskin game.

Our Thanksgiving chapel and flag raising provided the realization that Reynolds was much more than yelling at football games. Another meaningful chapel was the first National Honor Society induction which we witnessed as Reynolds students. Even though the members of our class took no part, we were reminded of our foremost purpose which is beautifully expressed by the words of our alma mater, "May we more useful be . . . always our duty see . . . strive on to victory through the golden rule."

The first in a long series of standardized tests came when we were faced with the NED test in December. More tests followed with our first exams. Never having had exams before, many of us put off our studying until the night before when we were forced to cram four months of learning into one night of study. It has been said that we learn best by experience, and although it was several days until New Year's, surely many resolutions were being planned for better study habits

The really cold weather of the New Year brought on indoor sports and the basketball season. Our class was proud to place a man on the varsity and faithfully supported the team. We welcomed the vacation afforded us by the snow but were not as cheerful when we had to make up the missed days in the spring

Although we had heard much about the Black and Gold Campaign, this was our first chance to take part. Our enthusiasm was spurred by the skits and jokes of the kick-off chapel, and a few days later, led by the sophomore class, Reynolds easily passed its goal.

By this time of year, the sophomores had become a part of the frantic rush to the parking lot at lunch and after school. Most of us had taken the driver's test, some of us several times, and by the end of the year many of us could be seen driving to school

March brought the most turned-about week of all — Twirp Week and the Twirp Dance. Girls carried boys' books, took them to dinner, and to the dance. Some boys started planning Twirp Year, but the girls just wouldn't have it

The closing of winter and the preparation for the Key Club Follies brought about hectic, but happy times. The planning, the auditioning, the practices — all were not perfectly organized, but the fast and furious atmosphere of working as a team made these weeks the hardest and yet the best for all concerned. The theme of Mother Goose was accurately carried out until the entire cast and audience joined the last act by twisting in the aisles.

History

At one time or another most of us have been exposed to Public Speaking. While being told to speak slower, faster, stand up straighter or stop looking out the window, we gradually overcame our fear of speaking before a group, and we were truly proud when sophomores were recitation and declamation winners. Several other sophomores were honored to be inducted into the Masque and Gavel.

Spring came, and with it the seasonal sports. Baseball, tennis, golf and track drew us unwillingly away from our dark study chambers and into the freshening air. The spring teams did well as the golf team quickly walked away with the conference title, and the track and tennis teams were North Carolina State Champions.

The end of spring brought exams and the closing of our first year at Reynolds. As we joined the throng, headed for a week of fun at the beach, our thoughts drifted back over a pleasant and profitable year. We looked forward to a summer full of friends and relaxation and to our return to our alma mater in the fall.

ELEVENTH GRADE

Although our Sophomore Year had been an exciting one, we were only too happy to assume the title of "Juniors." Acquiring the confident air characteristic of upperclassmen, we did our best to act in a manner befitting our new status.

With much school spirit and enthusiasm we entered football season. Now, more than ever, we really felt a part of the school. A large number of our classmates were either cheerleaders, majorettes, Dancing Boots, or members of the Marching Band. Many Juniors also played on the football team, and we avidly supported them all the way to the State Finals.

The discontinuation of Wednesday clubs was just one of the year's many changes. In their search for new meeting places, one club resorted to meeting at the Public Library and a local theatre.

With fall came many elections. After seemingly endless run-offs, we chose the four people whom we thought could best lead our class. We were well-represented in each branch of the Student Government both by officers and by members who had been elected the previous spring. A little later twelve of our girls were honored by the Senior Class when they were chosen to serve as marshals at Class Day and at graduation exercises.

For most of us, our Junior Year meant many tests. We took National Merit Examinations, Scholastic Aptitude Tests, and Achievement Tests, not to mention our exams. Everyone urged us to begin thinking about college, but the prospect seemed too remote to instill much enthusiasm. Nevertheless, on College Day, that mysterious event from which we had been barred as Sophomores, we took advantage of the opportunity to talk with representatives from several colleges and universities.

As winter approached, the familiar sound of bouncing basketballs began echoing from the gym. We Juniors were proud of our team, especially since our boys usually showed up well in the scoring column.

In an effort to expand our sports program, two new teams were formed. The swimming and wrestling teams drew much interest and fared very well in their first year of competition. In addition, a well-rounded intramural program offered an opportunity for many boys to participate in sports activities.

The debating team also had another fine year. Our debaters posted excellent records at the Wake Forest Speech Institute in the spring, and the varsity debating team was outstanding, with the affirmative team winning second place in the State Finals.

Although chapel programs were fewer in number, we felt that they were somewhat more stimulating than they had been during our first year at Reynolds. Our Fine Arts Lecture Series was especially rewarding, with outstanding speakers such as Mr. Walter Sullivan, and Dr. J. B. Rhyne, who came to lecture on topics ranging from moon-men to extra-sensory perception. Undoubtedly, our favorite chapel was the one at which Mr. David Brinkley, internationally-known news commentator, spoke to us on world affairs.

After much anticipation and delay, we finally received our class rings, those multi-purpose status symbols which were so long-awaited — and so briefly worn.

For a large group of Juniors, the last several months of school involved physical exertion and mental strain in addition to what their studies demanded. These students had been appointed to serve on the Jr.-Sr. Committee, and they were called upon to perform many unusual tasks. The boys will probably not soon forget perching precariously in the rafters as they put up the canopy, nor will the girls forget their trips to get decorations from the roach-infested locker rooms. There were many problems to be solved along the way, but after the dance, the consensus was that our efforts had produced the finest Jr.-Sr. which had been seen at Reynolds in many years.

The National Honor Society's spring induction was the most impressive program which we had attended. Eighteen Juniors were tapped to fill the ranks, a fact which made us duly proud. The Quill and Scroll and the Masque and Gavel also held ceremonies during which several of our class were inducted.

As we sat at Class Day and reviewed with the Seniors their years at Reynolds, we could not help taking a few moments for reminiscences of our own. We remembered the time when we had first come to Reynolds, and we could recall with painful clarity those days of worry and insecurity. Then we remembered the happiness of that year, and we smiled as we saw ourselves as we once had been. We then thought about our Junior Year, which was so quickly drawing to a close. How wonderfully full of happy memories it was! There had been tests to face and obstacles to overcome, but somehow, as we rose to our feet to the strains of "Her Portals Tall," we knew that we were ready to accept the challenge which we had just been given. As Seniors, we could indeed carry on the fine traditions of our alma mater, and we would bear her name and honor proudly for many years to come . . .

TWELFTH GRADE

Filled with dubious pleasure and hiding our anxiety behind the confident looks expected of SENIORS, we began the end of our high school career in the gym—a structure which most of us thought we were to be rid of during the school hours. Though we could hardly hear the speakers, we knew of what they were speaking—welcomes, instructions, rules, tender warnings, and threats of failure for any absence from the football games. All the inconveniences of gym gatherings and pep rallies on the front steps were caused by the renovation of our auditorium, but it was well worth it: we were finally able to see and hear the speakers, and cross our legs without crossing our neighbors.

Our school grew up considerably during our last year, and we had to make some adjustments. We were enraged by the denial of our familiar and accustomed "break," but most of us survived, and many of us looked a little slimmer. Then there was the big change in our grading system, or rather in our grades. We discovered that it could be slightly difficult to get a "B", and practically impossible to get an "A". Another innovation in our program was January exams. Although the Christmases of many may have been brighter, the beginning of the new year only served as an uncomfortable reminder of what was to come. Not only did we have exams, but also term papers, last-minute college applications, achievement tests, annual deadlines, and dreaded scores from the College Board.

The football season came and went, and we almost made it to the top; however, the manner in which our team pulled together will always make them champions to us.

Every Friday morning as we walked in from the landing we were greeted by "spectaculars" of life-sized football players, crayon boxes, or cages of tigers. The originality and hard work of the Pep Board inspired us all. How proud we were when Senior homerooms actually won prizes in the bulletin board contests at Homecoming.

As the year progressed we elected class officers and superlatives, and the National Honor Society held its fall induction. If the candles of the new members could be seen to shake slightly, who could blame the holders?

A day that we will always remember with horror and disbelief is November 22. The halls of Reynolds were tragically silent with the news that our youthful President John F. Kennedy had been assassinated.

During these days of sorrow, our thoughts were turned outward, and we covered our new stage at Thanksgiving with more food than had been seen there in a long time. At our annual program we were privileged to have as our speaker our assistant principal, Mr. Deaton.

Because no wild initiations were allowed, the activities of the Key Club and Senior Service Club were rather subdued. The boys were limited to such worthy projects as erecting numbered signs in the teachers' parking lot and painting benches.

Support for our basketball team rose greatly, and along with the enthusiasm came the problem of finding a parking place. Cars lined both sides of the street and occasionally the sidewalks and other convenient property as well.

We'll never forget the more exciting moments of our final year. We were Seniors, and we wanted to make the most of it. The Krispy Kreme Doughnut Shop became a regular stopping point, and the escapades after Y-Teens proved to be lively. Then there were the very crowded Young Life Club meetings. And the embarrassing moment when our swelled heads were measured for graduating caps, and we had to reassure ourselves that the larger the head, the more brains it contained. As usual, the picture-taking for the annual seemed endless, although the photographer was quite efficient. And didn't we really feel as if we had reached the top as we, the privileged, left the auditorium first after chapel. We gloated when we thought of the junior class struggling with the problems of our annual Junior-Senior, fully knowing that their dance could never be as great as ours. To College Day, the Student Council Convention, and the snow, we were grateful—for the opportunity of missing classes. But we undoubtedly gained something from talking with representatives of prospective colleges, from meeting many fine students, and from sledding.

The theme of the Key Club Follies, "Our American Heritage," reflected not only the heritage of our country, but also that of our school. The Follies, bringing again the usual excitement and thrilling drama of another excuse to leave the house on a week night, were an annual event. Another part of our heritage as Seniors was the long hours of inevitable work. Creating originality in our English compositions, determining the magnitude of the resultant force by means of the Law of Cosines, and living at the library while working on our term papers consumed much of our time. But we were grateful (?) to our teachers for lengthy assignments, because we knew that they were really doing it for our own good.

Graduation will mark the end of our high school career, a period of growing, and learning, and fun. We realize, though, that it is only the end of the beginning—the beginning of a life made richer by our never-to-be-forgotten experiences at Reynolds.

Who in the hollow of His hand
Holds all the growth of all our land —
A nation's growth from sea to sea
Stirs in his heart who plants a tree"

Buck,
 It's been great seeing you to and your classes with you. I want your writing more for making my writing better. I want to see you and a picture of you. Ready?
 P.S. what ~~is~~ ~~at~~
 it was ~~at~~ ~~to~~

Dear,
 It's been a great year and I have enjoyed it along with you. It was really good for you, with you. The basketball team, and I know you will enjoy, just as much next year. I know you will be a member of the team.

Bill Goodson

Dear,

I must say that it has been great having a teammate
 like you. I just added to this year. My greatest achievement was struggling through English. I need to write a lasting quotation at this point but I'm at a loss. Best of luck at Davidson. I hope it will be full of bright new worlds for you.

Always,
 Sharon

It has been a great year for me.

Buck,

You're thorough efficiency and patient gentleness have been one of my greatest influences during our trials and tribulations in New Ber.
 this year. Wish I could join you at Davidson next year. Come and see me at the W.B. next year.
 Always remember, a web bird never flies at night.

Georges holding of we went about to become post members of good ol' R.J.R. - at been a great finish to a high school senior.
 for the best of such at Davidson and when best of such at Davidson and when your wildcat play may maybe we can get together for a real blast speaking of blasts. I can hardly wait for the beach.
 I'll see you there, and, I hope, a future years best of such always

I did you write that in your book to have been the year you had the pleasure of being in my German class - you lucky thing. I guess I'll remember nothing out of the restaurant - high point, and all the waiting we did. Remember the first, and how you were it?
 keep it down at the beach and be sure to keep Pam in line. Good luck at what we can play golf with you flunk and Good luck in the future. Best of luck!
 I'll see you there!
